

November 2018:

GLH Seed-picking 2018

As in past years GLH Master Gardener Horiguchi-san guided us through the 2018 seed-picking season. This started on a rainy day in early September with the lone Jujube on the western end of Hiroshima's Peace Avenue. In late September we picked seeds of the Camellia tree by Yoshijima Shrine. In late November the GLH family--this year including a team of four students from Hiroshima Shudo University—came together on a beautiful day for seed-picking of the magnificent Ginkgo biloba tree in Shukkeien Garden and Kurogane holly in Hiroshima Castle. Finally on a cold early December day we went to Atago-pond grove by Peace Avenue, to watch as Master Gardener Horiguchi-san climbed the Persimmon, Hackberry and Muku trees, in search of seeds! He will now prepare them, then take for storage to Hiroshima Botanical Garden where they will be watched over by Dr. Hamatani, until dispatch to our partners.

As every year, it was moving to watch these gentle beautiful trees give so generously. May they change the world, one seed at a time.
